Total returns are calculated using the sell (exit) price, net of management fees and gross of tax as if distributions of income have been reinvested at the actual distribution reinvestment price. The actual returns received by an investor will depend on the timing, buy and exit prices of individual transactions. Return of capital and the performance of your investment in the fund are not guaranteed. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Figures showing a period of less than one year have not been adjusted to show an annual total return. Figures for periods of greater than one year are on a per annum compound basis. The current benchmark may not have been the benchmark over all periods shown in the above chart and tables. The calculation of the benchmark performance links the performance of previous benchmarks and the current benchmark over the relevant time periods.

Commentary

Global markets had a strong final quarter for 2022 after a volatile nine months, with the MSCI World index ex Australia rising 7.5% and the S&P ASX 300 rising 9.1%. Despite inflation remaining elevated, there were indications that prices could stabilize, as natural gas prices fell from a high of €340/MWh in August to pre-Ukraine levels near €70 by the end of the year. The US bond yield decreased dropping from 4.23% in October to 3.88% by the end of the year. The Australian bond market was more volatile, falling from 4.2% in October to 3.29% in December before finishing the year at 4.05%.

The Diversified Shares Fund increased by 4.1% (Wholesale 4.2%) over the December quarter relative to its benchmark which increased 8.0%, resulting in underperformance of -3.9% (Wholesale -3.8%). The domestic portfolio (75% of the total fund) increased by 4.92% versus its benchmark ASX200 which increased 9.4%, resulting in underperformance of -4.48% (before fees). The international portfolio underperformed its benchmark, returning 3.58% versus 3.95%. In the domestic portfolio, performance was impacted by substantial underweight positions in Materials (mainly resource stocks) and Energy which strongly outperformed as commodity and oil prices increased. The other meaningful sector which contributed to the underperformance was Financials, which performed strongly, reflecting the increasing interest environment. The Fund is underweight banks due to our ethical selection criteria.

Offsetting this underperformance, the Fund is significantly overweight the IT sector which outperformed due to a recovery in the sector which was oversold in the previous period.
