Total returns are calculated using the sell (exit) price, net of management fees and gross of tax as if distributions of income have been reinvested at the actual distribution reinvestment price. The actual returns received by an investor will depend on the timing, buy and exit prices of individual transactions. Return of capital and the performance of your investment in the fund are not guaranteed. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Figures showing a period of less than one year have not been adjusted to show an annual total return. Figures for periods of greater than one year are on a per annum compound basis. The current benchmark may not have been the benchmark over all periods shown in the above chart and tables. The calculation of the benchmark performance links the performance of previous benchmarks and the current benchmark over the relevant time periods.

Why invest ethically?

Portfolio diversification: Diversify your portfolio by investing in companies and sectors not well covered by other fund managers and brokers.
Help build a better world: Invest in the new, low-carbon economy, fund medical and technology breakthroughs, efficient transport and more.
Promote human rights: We strive to avoid any investment in companies involved in the poor treatment of asylum seekers or the exploitation of workers through poor working conditions.

Commentary

The Australian Ethical Fixed Interest Fund was short duration at the commencement of the March quarter relative to the Bloomberg Ausbond Composite Bond Index 0+. Long yields had declined through to the latter half of the prior quarter and were expected to stabilise as the market adjusted to another tightening of the US Fed Funds rate, delivered in late December. This stabilisation did not occur.

Yields continued their decline in the March quarter, pointing to expectations the US Federal Reserve would step back from projecting further tightening and the increasing belief the next move from the Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) would be a rate cut. These moves were justified as the US Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) did remove projections for future hikes, and the RBA stated that the next move in rates was roughly balanced between a hike and a cut. Following these changes in market guidance, the fund has moved to a neutral duration position.

The gross return for the fund was 0.02% behind the benchmark index, which was up 3.43% over the March Quarter. After fees, wholesale units in the fund were up 3.30% and retail units were up 3.16%.

Domestic unemployment remains below 5%, with little flow through from this labor market tightness to wages and inflation. There remains considerable uncertainty around the duration and depth of the decline in house prices in Sydney and Melbourne and the effect of this weakness on household consumption. While this combination of factors persists, the fund remains positioned with neutral duration relative to the benchmark.
