

A photograph of a wind farm at sunrise. The scene is filled with numerous white wind turbines of varying heights, scattered across a rolling green landscape. The sky is a mix of soft pinks, oranges, and yellows, with a layer of mist or low clouds hanging between the hills. The overall mood is serene and hopeful, emphasizing clean energy and nature.

Our Ethical Charter

Australian Ethical has been helping people invest in a better future for over 30 years.

Every investment we make must meet the requirements of our Ethical Charter, which has been unchanged since 1986. The charter guides us to invest in companies that support the planet, people and animals, to ensure we don't cause unnecessary harm.

We seek out positive investments that support:

People, quality and sustainability

We avoid investments that harm:

People, animals, society and the environment

We strive to:

Build a clean energy future

We invest in solar, geothermal, hydro and wind companies, such as Vestas who have raised wind turbines across 77 countries that provide more than 17%# of the world's wind power.

Send a message to big coal

Divesting from our worst polluters has potential to sway public opinion and expedite strong government action to deal with climate change.

Promote human and animal rights

We don't have investments in any companies involved in the poor treatment of asylum seekers, or companies that exploit workers with poor working conditions. We don't invest in animal agriculture and we exclude cosmetic companies that test products on animals.

Invest in a sustainable future

We do not compromise on investment performance by choosing to invest ethically.

Our truly unique investment process, managed by our in-house investment and ethics research teams, continues to deliver on our promise of sustainable performance for members. In fact, we believe that incorporating ethics into our investment process actually helps us to identify investment risks and opportunities earlier than most other funds.
